GREAT ATTRACTIONS AT KOMMERS' DINNER

Annual Tech Show Feed at 6.30
In Union Will Be the Best Ever Given.

Are you coming? Tonight in the Union will be held the most interesting Kommers' dinner ever. Last year's chorus girls, principals in costume, old Show men, and members of the Faculty will be there in large numbers, and in addition to this a few original "stunts" will be introduced which will help to liven up the already pleasing program. Besides all this, copies of last year's poster will be given away as souvenirs of the occasion.

Do you remember the merriment that ran through the entire house last year when Karl D. Fernstrom, the chaperon, appeared on the stage in that genuine harem-skirt imported from Turkey especially for the Show? Well, everybody had better bring opera glasses or a telescope to the dinner, for Karl is going to be there, dressed in self-same harem-skirt. Nor is this all, for Edmund Brown, the comical butler; Wetherald and Hastings, who sang "Every Juliet has a Romeo;" and Ken Faunce, whose representation of Sherlock Holmes was the best ever, will all be there in costume. At former Show dinners there have usually been one or two principals in costume, but never before in the history of the Kommers' dinner has such an aggregation of principals, all in stage makeup, been gathered together. Their appearance and the stunts they will do will alone be worth the price of admission.

Among the Faculty, the Dean, Professor Jackson, Dr. Talbot and Mr. Blachstein, or "Blachie," as he is known to the students, and without whom no Kommer dinner would be complete, will all be there, with something of interest to give to the students.

HOCKEY TEAM TO TRY INTERCOLONIALS AGAIN

Great Improvement During the Past Week Should Make Victory Easy.

Last night, at the Arena, the Hockey team had a short practice scrimmage with the Intercolonials, the seven that defeated Tech last week, in preparation for the game with them at the Arena tonight. The ice was rough and but little team work could be gotten in for that reason.

The squad was divided up so that there was a constant fire of shots at and through the defence from the different sets of forwards. Both parts of the squad benefitted from this work and should show up much better on that account tomorrow.

The game will be called at 7 o'clock sharp, with the following lineup:

Technology. Intercolonials.
Storke, I. w. I. w. Doe
Hurlbutt, I. c. I. c. Small
Sloan (Capt.) r. c. r. c. Telford
Yereance, r. w. r. w. Whittier
Stucklen, c. p. c. p. Skilton
Eichorn, p. p. Foote

In giving these men the final honor of being ranked in the All-America Team for 1911, we have endeavored to consider the men who showed the best football, who played the most even, consistent game throughout the year, and who possessed the brains which have been needed at all times in this year of most surprising victories and defeats at all times.

There have been many good ends on the various college teams from whom it has been hard to say that one was and the other was not good enough. Bud Smith of Harvard is about the top-notch man on the end of the line, his head work in mixing up plays, his ability in handling forward passes, his tackling and his speed, put him first on the list. The next man to be considered is Bomeisler of Yale, a man who has shown consistent, sterling worth in spite of his frequent handicaps in the line of injuries, and capable of putting it all over Sam White in the Princeton game by his general work and reliability. White has shown a wonderfully clever qualification for the place by his perfect work in following the ball all year. His lack of defensive strength alone makes it imperative that he rank on the second team. Daly of Dartmouth, the other end on the second, has been a tower of strength for the Green, and he has lost the honors by a hair.

The tackles were fewer in number when they came down to the final sifting out, but they were more nearly of the same grade. The four men will have to stand with almost equal honor. Captain Hart, of Princeton, is a little bit above the rest, for he showed almost superhuman power in the last two games of the season when he stopped two of the fastest and best backfields in the country. Littlejohn, of the Army team, played a fine, steady game and bolstered up his side of the line in every play, having a slight advantage over his opponents. Englehorn, of Dartmouth, seems to have a little superiority over his mate, Scully of Yale, for he played a game that was all but worthy of the championship place.

Of the Guards, Fisher of Harvard, has added the duties of captain without any apparent falling off in his All-America form of last year, and Duff, of Princeton, has shown strong in all his games. He shows very strong on the defense, for ever a fighter, he is the first man through, nailing his plays before they can get started. Garrels, of Michigan, and Goldberg, of Brown, would have ranked higher if they had played in better company, for they were both clever, fast men for their positions.

At center, we are up against it, for there are at least three men who should be considered. Huntington, of Harvard, can be left out, for he was taken into the backfield, but had he continued in the pivot position throughout the season he would have been about first choice. Ketcham, of Yale, it is claimed, was responsible for losing two games, but he has shown more power in the line and headwork in handling plays and covering his position. He seemed to outplay Bluthenthal in the Princeton game, and for that reason he has the first honor.

Miller, of Penn State, and Howe, of Yale, are away above the average run of quarter-back material, and are nearly on a par.

Miller has made his team what it is, and Howe has done the same for the Blue, but he has displayed just a trifle more generalship in running his team and in his offensive work, enough to more than balance up his poorer work in handling punts, and just enough to give him the call for the place.

Much excellence has been shown in the back-field all year, but there seem to be four men who stand out prominently. The brightest of these stars is a man who will, perhaps, not be picked by any other of the experts, for he does not play under the Intercollegiate eligibility rules. To

SHEDD LOOKS LIKE WINNER OF HANDICAP

Race to Be Held Over New Course at Wakefield
Today.

This afternoon the annual handicap cross-country race will be held on the new course in Wakefield. Gale C. Shedd, who was the first Tech man to finish in the I. C. A. A. A. race last Saturday, has signed the entry book, and looks to be the winner of the time prize. The outcome of all handicap races are doubtful until the winner is across the line, as the ranges of the various times given to the men tends to even the race, and men who have not shown up so well during the year are apt to finish before some of the leaders.

Captain Nye is also one of the possible winners, and if the handicapper likes him, should carry home one of the cups. R. D. Bonney, who lives in Wakefield, and knows the course like a book, is very likely to take first honors away from Shedd, and it looks as if the race for first between these two men will be the feature of the day.

Ex-Captain Ferry has always been a strong man in these runs and will be right there at the finish. Peasley, Wall, Brett and Wilkins, all strong men on the cross-country squad, are listed in the entry book and should make the race an interesting one.

The course is eight miles long and takes in all kinds of country, levels, woods, marshes and roads of all descriptions. The hare and hounds' runs that have been held in Wakefield have always been popular with the fellows that are in the habit of going on those runs, and a crowd is expected. The (Continued on Page 3.)

PROM COMMITTEE.

Nominations for Most Important
Junior Com. Open Monday.

Prom Committee nominations will open on Monday. Those words simple though they are, convey much to the members of the Class of 1913, for they note the fact that they are coming rapidly to one of the most glorious episodes of their course at the 'Stute.

The Class of 1913 have now the chance to call out either the best men of their class for this important committee, or they can let it fall into the hands of mediocre material to handle as they will. The nominations must be signed by ten of the voters (meaning men who have paid their dues), and left at the Cage for the Board of Directors of the class before December 11th.

The Dean paid a marked compliment to the Civil Engineering Society at the meeting of the Architectural Engineering Society last Tuesday evening, when he advised the latter to follow in the footsteps of the Civil Society, that organization being the liveliest in existence at the Institute at the present time. Any of the other societies might well profit from the Civils in regard to the activity of their particular bodies. The Electricals and Mechanicals have not enough excursions to awaken interest in that form of increasing learning. The holding of excursions gives the men the best chance that they can possibly get of seeing how things are really done in the outside world, and how the various mechanical and electrical corporations carry on their relations with employees. The excursions broaden one's views to a remarkable extent and give the finishing touch to the education furnished by the Institute Curriculum.

We hope that the Program Committees of the Mechanical, and particularly the Electrical Societies, will get busy and give their members a chance to visit the various plants in the vicinity of the "Hub."

CROSS-COUNTRY.

Hare and Hounds' Club is conducting the race this afternoon and Coach Kanaly makes out the handicaps.

The three cups that are given as prizes are the gifts of E. H. Lorenz, 1905, who was the holder of the record for the West Roxbury course, which was previously used for this race; F. H. Hunter, 1902, and A. R. Hunter, 1908, both members of the cross-country team while in the Institute, and ex-Captain Ridsdale Ellis, 1909.

ALL-AMERICA FOOTBALL.

say that this man is Jim Thorpe, of Carlisle is enough; we need to add nothing in his favor. Wendell, of Harvard, has given a fine, consistent exhibition of line-bucking and offensive power, so that he will be given the other place on the first team. Captain Dalton, of the Navy, has shown great ability in that best of all departments this year, kicking, and by many he will be placed on the first choice. He has won the Army game two years running with his sure toe. And Hogsett, of Dartmouth, is another kicker who will figure strongly in many peoples' minds, but he is not quite up to the mark.

IMPROVED CAFETERIA SERVICE BEING PLANNED

Modern Scientific Methods to Be Installed in New Technology.

One of the most important problems on the social side of the life in any large college is the question of feeding the vast army of students. Recognizing the importance of this, the mammoth dining room which is to be installed in the new Technology will be a model of modern improvements combined with scientific management. The service which we now have in this line cannot be excelled anywhere in Boston, thanks to the efforts of our efficient steward, Mr. Colten. But he intends to make the new dining room surpass anything of the sort now in existence.

The cafeteria service is the best patronized part of the student "Restaurant" in the Union, so particular care will be taken in that feature of the new service. The method will probably be an improvement of the one now used in several of the "Laboratory Kitchen Lunch Rooms" in operation in this city. In these there is a wall between the kitchen and the serving-room containing niches or openings through which dishes may be passed. Above each of the openings is the name of the particular article of food served there, and a customer has no difficulty to find what he wants. In this way a person is able to obtain meals at a price much lower than that charged at most restaurants.

If you are not familiar with the conveniences of the cafeteria service in the Union it is time that you got acquainted. Try it some day when you are in a hurry.

KOMMERS' DINNER.

Mr. Harold Wonson, '07, author of "Dear Old M. I. T." and writer of music for four Shows, has consented to be present and offer advice to those who are intending to enter competition for lyrics and music for this year's Show.

Besides these men who have had experience with other Tech Shows, the managers of the various departments of the Tech Show, 1912, will all be on hand to give talks concerning their individual departments. This will be an excellent opportunity for the Freshmen to become familiar with the working plans of the Show and its relation to the Institute. They should bear in mind that the dinner is given primarily for their benefit, and it is the hope of the management that the Class of 1915 will have a large representation.

Remember tonight in the Union, at 6:30 o'clock, and tickets can be obtained at the Cage, the Show office, or of any of the men connected with the Show for the nominal price of fifty cents. Everybody come and have the time of your life.

This afternoon, in the gymnasium of the Columbia University, New York, there will be held a meeting of the Collegiate Rules Committee. The purpose of this meeting will be to revise and improve the playing rules for the coming season. Each rule is to be thoroughly taken up and explained for the benefit of the players, coaches and officials present. Especial attention is to be given to the forming of rules governing player offenses that are hard to detect, such as the one-arm rule.

The committee has invited all eastern colleges and large schools to send representatives to this meeting. As a result a large gathering of referees, umpires, scorers, coaches, managers and captains are expected to be present. Unfortunately M. I. T. is unable to have anybody at this conference. Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft of Princeton, chairman of the committee, will have charge of the meeting. Among other well-known basketball authorities who will attend are: Dr. A. H. Sharpe, Yale; Lieut. P. D. Glassford, West Point; Ralph Morgan, Pennsylvania; Harry A. Fisher, Columbia, and Oswald Tower, Williams. Similar meetings will be held at the same time by the Rules Committee at Chicago, Illinois, and Lawrence, Kansas.

DESMOND FITZGERALDTo Speak at Open Exercises in "Public Speaking" Monday.

Mr. Desmond Fitzgerald, of the Corporation, has promised to be present and address the students at the Monday exercises of the third-year option in Public Speaking.

This announcement should meet with much approval from the public speaking students, for they are promised a most enjoyable talk from such a widely known man. Mr. Fitzgerald is one of the best known entertainers in New England. He has traveled extensively in Europe, Asia and Africa, studying the different peoples and their customs. About a week ago he spoke at the first Ladies' Night of the Technology Club. He has in his possession many views and slides of the most noted foreign wonders and beauty spots. Mr. Fitzgerald is perfectly at ease when speaking before any audience, and the students are sure to get some excellent pointers on how to hold an audience.

There will be several five-minute speeches by members of the section following Mr. Fitzgerald's address. The class is held in 23 Walker, at 9 A. M., and visitors are welcome as usual.

James Thorpe went to Carlisle in 1908 with no knowledge whatever of athletics. Since then he has accomplished such a great variety of athletic feats on the floor, gridiron, diamond, track and in the field that college trainers have been astonished by his achievements.

SWIMMING MEET TODAY

This afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at the Cabot tank, the swimming team holds its first elimination trials. The races will start promptly and will be run off as quickly as possible, since the free use of the pool is limited to a very short time. The manager asks therefore that the candidates be on hand early so that they may get into the water on time.

The events include the short dashes, the fifty and the hundred, the two-twenty-yard swim and the plunge for distance. All entrants must report as soon as they arrive at the tank and specify the event which they intend to enter.
